

Sign In | About Us | TV Guide | Newsletters | Contact Us

Full Site Search

NM Style | News | Weather | Sports | Entertainment | Video | Contests | Face of Fox | Participate | W82TXT

Home : News : Politics :

Photo

Susana Martinez, Republican gubernatorial candidate for New Mexico, center, speaks to telephone bank workers at the Las Cruces, N.M. Republican headquarters with her husband Chuck Franco, right. (AP Photo/William Faulkner)
 Copyright 2012 The Associated Press. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten or redistributed.

Larger Photo

Latest Local News

- Three at large after meth-ring roundup
Fifteen suspected members of a methamphetamine ring supplying ...
- Nanny arrested for child abuse
A Las Cruces nanny has been arrested on suspicion of negligent ...
- NNSA approve LANL buyouts
The National Nuclear Security Administration has approved a ...
- Court denies request in emissions case
A federal appeals court Thursday denied a request by Gov. ...
- ABQ man registers dog to vote
A man who went on Albuquerque television anonymously to say he ...

Advertisement

Gov.'s husband pushes literacy funding

Updated: Friday, 20 Jan 2012, 10:40 AM MST
Published: Friday, 20 Jan 2012, 10:40 AM MST

SANDRA BALTAZAR MARTINEZ, Santa Fe New Mexican

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) - With about 46 percent of New Mexico's native English speakers reading at a sixth-grade level or below, the New Mexico Coalition for Literacy is pushing the Legislature for more funding.

And helping drive their efforts is first gentleman Chuck Franco.

The husband of Gov. Susana Martinez spoke at a news conference earlier this week about his support for expanding such services and the goal of eradicating illiteracy in New Mexico.

"My interest in adult literacy came to me when I was in law enforcement," Franco told a small crowd gathered at St. Francis Hotel in downtown Santa Fe.

Adult literacy is one of three causes Franco has decided to take on. The others are Horses for Heroes and the Youth Diagnostic Development Center in Albuquerque.

Franco said that when he started working with troubled youth, he realized that their issues ran beyond behavioral problems. Having parents at home who couldn't read was one of them.

Having a well-educated population is important for New Mexico's economic advancement, Franco said. Companies interested in coming to New Mexico want to know that there is a prepared workforce.

Supporting the New Mexico Coalition for Literacy also complements Gov. Susana Martinez' push to improve K-12 education in the state, Franco said.

"I think we all need to participate in order to give New Mexico the workforce we need," Franco said. "If we wait for another generation to slip through the cracks, we are going to be in bad shape."

The coalition, which has been in Santa Fe for 25 years, is one way to help improve adults' reading skills, Franco said.

Funded by the Department of Cultural Affairs through the New Mexico State Library, the coalition currently operates on a $325,000 budget, down from the $755,000 budget it had before the economy tanked. The coalition funds 23 literacy programs throughout the state, including Literacy Volunteers of Santa Fe.

Executive Director Heather Heunermund said funding cuts reduced services across the state. During the Legislature's current 30-day session, the organization will

Like Tweet 0 Share

Advertisement

Trending Stories

- Convicted murderer gets second chance
- Thieves bludgeon stores open with car
- APD cops pending before state board
- Investigators ID body, hunt death cause
- APD seeking gas station armed robber

More News »

Local News Blog

- Snow hampers travel in northeast N.M.
- Pollen counts mostly lower
- Unlimited plans now come with limits
- 5 Things you need to know before you...
- Your March 2nd Day Planner

More »

Current Conditions - Statewide

40°

Wind: 17mph NW Windchill: 31°
 Dewpoint: 6° Barometer: 29.95
 Sunrise: 6:32 am Sunset: 6:04 pm

View webcams

ask for an additional $347,200, she said. To help ease the strain, Public Service Co. of New Mexico's Resources Foundation awarded the literacy coalition a $20,000 grant on Wednesday.

The number of illiterate or functionally literate adults in New Mexico derives from various sources: U.S. Census Bureau data and a 1993 National Assessment of Adult Literacy Survey (the most recent survey available). In the near future, the coalition plans to work with New Mexico they don't know how to read, said Donna Aragon, the coalition's kers," Aragon said. "English learners come looking for the

Sta
So sta
"T service."

Local News Video Player

Weekend activities around NM

The Fiery Foods show, comedy with Kevin Hart and music from Jazz virtuoso Iliana Rose are on top of the list of things to do in Albuquerque this weekend. More »

SIGN UP TO GET
TEXT ALERTS

Advertisement

Electronic Cigarettes Shocking News
You'll Be Amazed At What We've Found... Get details...

Ad by profes360

Contests	Strange	Entertainment	National	Photos
 Dairy Queen Lobo Fan Ticket Giveaway Enter each day for your chance to win ticket's to Lobo Women's Basketball game. More Contests »		 Don't Make Me Tell Larry Barker Enter the weekly contest for your chance to win a Larry Barker t-shirt!

0 Comments

Most recent | Top rated | First to last

0 followers ★ FOLLOW CONVERSATION

There are no comments yet.

You must be logged in to comment.
Login or register now.

0 / 2000

ADD VIDEO ADD PHOTO POST COMMENT

Site Tools

- KASA on Twitter
- KASA on Facebook
- KASA on MySpace
- TV Guide
- Mobile/iPhone
- Text Alerts

NM Style | News | Weather | Sports | Entertainment | Video | Contests | Face of Fox | Participate | W82TXT

LIN Interactive | Terms of Service | Privacy Policy | Contact Us | Advertise with Us

All content (c) Copyright 2000 - 2012 LIN Television Corporation. All Rights Reserved.